GOLD GOING OUT TO-DAY.

NEARLY $5,000,000 TO BE SHIPPED-NOT VIEWED WITH MISGIVINGS BY FINANCIAL MEN.

gold to the total amount of $4,775,000 will be shipped for England from this centre to-day on the Goldman, Sachs & Co. are sending $1,500,000 of this sum, Baring, Magoun & Co. $1,000, 000, L. Von Hoffman & Co. $400,000, Muller, Schall & Co. $625,000, and Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. $1,250,000. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., August Belmont and Co., Lazard Frères and the National City Bank announced yesterday afternoon that they would export any gold this week. The Baring Magoun & Co. shipment was taken from the Sub-Treasury. It is not known just how much of the $4.755,000 going out to-day will figure in this morn-

Respecting the gold exports, the president of one of the most influential National banks said yes-

Shipments of gold to England will not be re garded with inisgivings by persons conversant with the situation. London is the financial centre of world. Her market just now is in a bad that is, she needs gold, and we here in New-York have millions more than we are likely to use for some time to come. It is a case of the daughter helping the mother. Anything that benefits London just now helps to strengthen the entire financial structure. With easier conditions in London will come easier conditions here, so it will be seen will come easier conditions here, so it will be seen that we are not altogether unselfish in lending a few millions of our gold."

The money market continued easy yesterday, there being no indication of the occurrence of an emergency which would call for the placing of the remaining $5,000,000 of the relief fund subscribed early in the week by a syndicate of banks. Call money was at 6 per cent for most of the day, that being the highest rate at which loans were made, the market closing at 4 per cent, the low level of the day. There were deposited with the Sub-Treasury $200,000 of United States bonds as security for the deposit of internal revenue receipts with various local banks, making the total bends turned in at the Sub-Treasury for that purpose $10.386,000 par value.

The depression in the stock market continued, and the list as a whole showed at the close more or less serious net declines, but toward the end of the day a decided recovery set in, closing prices as a rule, being noticeably above the lowest, and the tone of the market being regarded by the Street as having materially improved.

RUN ON A PORTLAND BANK.

DEPOSITORS WERE FRIGHTENED BY APPAR-ENTLY GROUNDLESS RUMORS.

Portland, Me., Dec. 22.-A rumor of unknown origin concerning the solvency of the Portland Savings Bank, started a run on the bank to-day. Deposits were turned over as fast as the books were ented, most of the payments being in gold. The crowd reached such proportions early in the afternoon, however, that officials of the bank decided to guard against running short of ready cash by taking refuge behind the means provided by law.

The statement issued says the bank has a surplus of $1,250,000 invested in Government securities. plus of $1,250,000 invested in Government securities. About $125,000 was paid out to-day, and the bank will reopen in the morning prepared to meet any and every demand. State Bank Examiner Timberlake gave a statement for publication, saying that a great deal of this disturbance grew out of the failure of Woodbury & Moulton, and the alleged connection of the bank with that firm. While the bank had loaned money to Woodbury & Moulton, it had collateral sufficient to secure it from any loss. The last examination showed a surplus of about $1,250,000, and the condition of the bank has not materially changed since that time.

REASSURING SITUATION AT BOSTON. SUSPENSION OF THE GLOBE NATIONAL CAUSED NO FAILURES-GOOD OUT-LOOK FOR CREDITORS.

Boston, Dec 22.-Another day of unrest in Bos ton's financial circles went by without incidents of startling nature. The receivership for the Globe National Bank took nearly every banker and broker surprise, and before business in the money market began forebodings were dire. But prophesying and fears were not realized, for the situation to-night was conservatively considered as good if not slightly better than at any time for a fort-Not a failure was announced when the Stock Exchange was closed, and, best of all,

The key of the whole situation is believed to be in the action of the Clearing House Association in issuing $5,500,000 worth of certificates for temporary From this amount it is understood Globe Bank received $3,000,000 in cash. Yesterday, it is currently reported, the Clearing House committee declined to give the Globe Bank further assistance, and to this fact is attributed the quick appointment of a receiver. There is some interest turned over to the Clearing House by the Globe Bank, and whether the latter's failure has im-paired that value. Officially, nothing will be said at present about the dealings of the Globe Bank with the Clearing House, and if the securities held by the latter have depreciated below the margin of safety, the individual banks will have to bear the loss pro rata. The loan of $3,000,000 to the Globe Bank relieved the financial tension on numerous brokers and bankers. Firms that had thousands on deposit when the Globe Bank first showed evidence of trouble have since withdrawn their accounts, and the money paid out came from that clearing house

The bank paid out from its deposits during the last month $2,642,000. On May 6 the amount in the bank reached $10.175,000, and the average for months was between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 up to the time of the recent troubles. Three-fourths of the bank's stock, or $750,000, is held by Massachusetts saving banks, all of which are good for the 100 per cent liabilities imposed by law upon individual stockholders. When early would-be customers appeared at the Globe Bank they found Receiver Wing in charge and the clerks at their accustomed places. There was no excitement for a time, but as business on the Street grew to its height the bank was the cen tre of attraction, and many harsh words were said against it and the officials. In the market itself, the usual mirror of the ups and downs of finances, hardly a good sized ripple was created. To be sure stocks went down, but Boston brokers maintained that quotations here followed New-York. As for coppers, which class of stocks are charged with turning Boston topsy-tury, they did not slump away, as predicted, their weakness hardly touching the low priced ones, and being on an average scarcely more noticeable than for weeks Broadway National Bank's affairs would The Broadway National Bank's affairs would ave been lost sight of for the time being had not ecreditors of the Squire Company, the fortunes f which are mingled with those of the bank, met outline their plans and to form a committee of cition. Some demand for ready cash was made to the market here by a Portland bank on which run was made, but it did not disturb conditions. To-morrow being a short day and naturally a dil one, no further changes are looked for, and next influential factor is expected to be contained in Receiver Wing's report on the Broaday Bank. For both the latter bank and the lobe, it is confidently said, that the failures will it be nearly as hard as pictured, and the outlook or creditors is reassuring.

The failure of the Globe National Bank, of Boston, caused no surprise in New-York banking cirles, since it was known that week before last the Boston Clearing House had to come to its rescue, The Globe's correspondents in New-York are the National Bank of North America, the Hanover National Bank of North America, the Hanover National Bank and the National City Bank. Its chief husiness was transacted through the Bank of North America. The assistant cashier of that institution said yesterday that the Globe Bank had a small balance there. At the Hanover National Bank, President Woodward made the same statement, and at the National City Bank a similar statement was made. In the three banks there are small balances to the Globe's credit.

UNKNOWN WOMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH. An unknown and respectably dressed woman, about fifty-two years old, was seized with a sudden illness last night in an electric car, at Sixtlethand Central Park West. The car was stopped and the woman carried to Durland's Riding Acc emy, nearby. She died within a few minutes. The woman had nothing about her to disclose her

THREE HUNDRED WILL SUFFER.

THE REDUCTION IN SALARIES AFFECTS MANY

TEACHERS IN QUEENS. Edward L. Stephens, Superintendent of Schools for the Berough of Queens, has informed all the school principals in the borough that the salaries of every teacher in the borough, with the exception of those whose pay was not increased by the Ahearn law, and those whose salaries are $650 or less, will be reduced from 15 to 20 per cent after January 1, and that the reduction will continu through the school year. Unless this cut is made, Superintendent Stevens says, the force of teachers would have to be greatly reduced.

There are 730 teachers in the Borough of Queens and only 108 are benefited by the Ahearn law. More than three hundred other teachers are receiving salaries in excess of $550, and all of their salaries will be are will be cut.

In a letter making known the reduction, the Superintendent practically advises the teachers to obtain transfers to other boroughs. It was hoped by the Queens teachers that some portion of the money now due them would be paid before Christmas, but their last hope is gone. One teacher said yesterday that this year, for the first time since she was a child, she was unable to send her parents a Christmas present. Another teacher, who heard of the reduction for next year, wanted to know what good that would do, as probably the city would default in payment by August next year.

SPEAKS AGAINST EXPANSION.

GAMALIEL BRADFORD'S PESSIMISTIC LECTURE AT COOPER UNION.

as an anti-expansionist, lectured at Cooper Union last night before the People's Institute on "The Philippine Problem-An Arraignment of the ent Policy" He used the familiar pessimistic arguments of his kind, such as:

guments of his kind, such as:

We started a hundred years ago a government of which the leading features were almost wholly new, and with a structure perhaps the most complex and artificial in history. Can anybody deny that the machinery shows signs of breaking under the strain?

We are told that the Philippine war is in the interests of commerce. The simplest figures will show that the expense in one year of war could not be repaid by the profits of twenty years of commerce.

If we cannot govern successfully States and cities at home, how can we carry on governments in Asia?

Do you think that the soliders now enlisting, and who will come home after a year or more in the East, will be the same class of men who returned from the Civil War or even from Cuba? After shooting down Filipinos like rabbits, how much mercy will they have for the people of New-York?

We are told that however much we may criticise the policy of the Government it is not right or wise to make a personal attack on the President Have we then advanced so far on the President can do no wrong?

This is the policy of the government what the President can do no wrong?

This is the poole's battle, the old, old battle against wealth, class and position striving to reduce the multitude to be the instruments of their will and getting ready a standing army, so as in the fulness of time to enforce that will.

As to what the decision of the people will be if the situation is fairly placed before them I have no doubt whatever. The only question is whether they can be made to understand it.

WHALEBACK BARGE'S CREW SAFE.

CAPTAIN HEARD FROM AT A CANADIAN LAKE PORT.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 22.-Pickands, Mather & Co., owners of the whaleback barge No. 115, which it was supposed had been lost with all on board in the storm early last week, to-day received a tele gram from the captain of the barge saying that himself and crew were safe. The telegram is dated Middleton, Ont., and says the vessel went ashore near Little Pic River, on the north shore of Lake Superior.

The message says nothing as to the condition of the vessel. Her crew consisted of eight men. When the whaleback broke away from the steamer towing her in the big storm she was leaking badly, and had only two or three days' food supply on board.

RECALLED ATTACHE ARRIVES.

Among the passengers who arrived here yester day on board the Hamburg-American Line steam ship Columbia was Dr. Charles Wardell Stiles, sci-entific attaché of the United States Embassy at Berlin. Dr. Stiles was recalled some weeks ago by this Government because of a protest against him on the part of the German Agrarian party. It him on the part of the German Agrarian party. It was said at the time that Dr. Stiles had been too aggressive in his support of American agricultural interests in Germany. It was at his own request that he was recalled.

Other passengers were Simon Hamburger, Colonel S. M. Morgan, A. Siegel and F. Auerbach. The steamer carried 250 cabin and 312 steerage passengers.

BERKELEY SCHOOL DRILL.

At the 71st Regiment Armory yesterday morning the Berkeley School held its regular semi-annual The manœuvres and evolutions went off well, and it was the general opinion of the large number of spectators present that it was easily the best drill that had ever been given so early in the academic year. The two battalions of the school and Majors Robert De San Mazano and J. W. Alker. Their subordinate officers were Regimental Adjutant Douglas McKee, Adjutants H. S. SENATOR FORAKER CONTINUES THE DISCUSSION.

HE SAYS THAT THE STATEMENTS OF MESSRS, PAYNE, HANNA, PROCTOR AND MERRIAM DO NOT HELP MR. KOHLSAAT.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Washington, Dec. 22.-Seated in the library of his home at Sixteenth and P sts., with all the documents before him, Senator Foraker displayed this evening the originals of the resolutions on the gold plank submitted to the committee at St. Louis. The text of these has already been published by the Senator. The final draft submitted by Senator Hanna, and carefully marked, is a typewritten slip of paper. It manifestly does not contain the word "gold" in the connection in which it was used in the final paragraph, and this original bit of documentary evidence seems to show conclusively that if at the conference on the Friday preceding the convention Mr. Kohlsaat forced the word "gold" in its proper place into the draft of the plank, it did not last, and did not reach the committee in that form at all. The nearest approach to the final plank was that submitted by Mr. Holton, a delegate at large from Vermont, and this may have come from Senator Proctor. The list of drafts does not include one from ex-Governor Merriam, although he says in his statement he submitted one. If so, it

SENATOR FORAKER'S STATEMENT.

When asked for a statement in answer to those submitted by Senator Hanna, Henry C. Payne, Senator Proctor and ex-Governor Merriam, as sent out by The Associated Press last night, Senator Foraker said:

There is nothing in any of the statements that conflicts with any statement made by me at any time. What I disputed was the following:

Mr. Kohisaat drafted the gold plank of the Republican platform. He presented the resolution to the committee, and insisted on its incorporation in the platform. He placed strong political friendships in peril, for men as close and even closer to the candidate than he—if any more intimate relations could exist than those between the editor and the candidates—were emphatically of the opinion that it was the part of unreason to declare for gold coinage. They were overcome, and the rest is known.

If this means anything it means, first, that

If this means anything it means, first, that Mr. Kohlsaat framed, that is, wrote, the plank which was adopted; second, that the committee was opposed to its adoption, and third, that he appeared before the committee and overcame that opposition. My statement was that not one of these claims is true, and I showed they were all false by the record. I did not claim I was the author of the plank, or that any other man was the author. On the contrary, what I said on this point was:

The truth is that the framing of this plank was like the doing of most such things, not the work of any one man, but a mere expression of a common sentiment, in arriving at which all aided to whom the duty of formulating an expression had been assigned. The subject was attracting general attention, and at such a time, with respect to such a subject, all intelligent and informed men will have views and are likely to formulate them, especially when called upon to take important action with regard thereto. The great silver debate in the Senate that preceded the convention of 1895 had set the whole country to thinking and talking. The daily discussions of the newspapers were educating the people, and it was everywhere felt by the masses, as well as among the leaders, that the platform of 1896 must contain a more explicit declaration against free silver, and in favor of the maintenance of the gold standard, than the Republican party had theretofore made, and, therefore, when the committee met at St. Louis it was found that there was practically no difference of opinion as to what should be done, but only differences as to the language that should be employed. The work of the committee was but a work of phraseology or rhetoric than it probably would have been allowed to prepare a plank on his own responsibility and without interference or help.

MR. KOHLSAAT'S. POSITION. The truth is that the framing of this plank was

MR. KOHLSAAT'S POSITION. Mr. Kohlsaat, seeing what the record was, then stated editorially in "The Times-Herald" of De-cember S that his controversy was not with the committee, but with the following named close friends of the President: Schator Hanna, Senaex-Governor Merriam, Myron T. He says the discussion with these gentlemen lasted five hours, and that "the majority of those present were inclined to regard the insertion of the word gold as unnecessary and im-politic. Mr. Kohlsaat was firm in the belief that the word gold was of vital importance," etc., and that "his associates acknowledged the force of his contention, but hesitated," etc. "Finally, lowever, firmness won, and the word gold was Mr. Kohlsaat further says in the same article that Mr. Payne drafted the resolution they had under consideration. According to this statement, in Mr. Kohlsaat's own paper, Mr. Kohlsaat abandons two of the claims I disputed, viz: that he drafted the plank, and second, that he appeared before the committee with respect to it.

GOLD MEN IN THE COMMITTEE.

His present claim is that he had an unofficial conference with respect to the insertion of the word gold in a draft that had been prepared by somebody else, and that a majority of the six men he names were opposed to the use of the word gold. Four of the men he names, viz., Hanna, Proctor, Merriam and Payne, have published in to-day's papers their signed state. lished in to-day's papers their signed state-ments. No one of them admits he was opposed to the use of the word gold, or that he was perto the use of the word gold, or that he was persuaded or changed in his opinion to a different course by anything Mr. Kohlsaat said or did. Three of them, viz.: Proctor, Merriam and Payne, the only ones I have talked with on the subject, all say they were in favor of the use of the word gold, and not opposed to such use at the conference or at any other time while the subject was under consideration.

Senator Proctor said in the statement he dictated and gave to the representative of "The Times-Herald," who gave it out to The Associated Press for publication in to-day's papers, that all six who were named as present at the conference were in favor of the use of the word that all six who were named as present at the conference were in favor of the use of the word gold. I know this was in his statement, because he showed it to me before he gave it out for publication. Why this declaration does not appear in Senator Proctor's published account of the proceedings I do not know. Neither do I care, for with all that part of the matter I had nothing to do, and with respect to it never professed to have any knowledge. I simply call attention to these questions of veracity, and leave them for settlement by those who are parties to them in such a way as they may see fit.

As to the third proposition I disputed, that the as to the third proposition I disputed, that the committee were opposed to the word gold, not only is the record conclusive to show all except only is the record conclusive to show an excep-senator Teller favored the use of the word, but that is now conceded, so there was not at any time any excuse for Mr. Kohlsaat claiming he influenced the action of the committee. If he had been dead the platform would have been the same. Nothing that he did nor anything any-body size did had any influence upon the combody else did had any influence upon the com-mittee, or anything to do with its action, except only as it was influenced by common sentiment and a recognition of the requirements of the time and the situation, all of which was recog-nized by the committee, whether or not it was by the "close friends" of the President with whom Mr. Kohlsaat had his contention, if he else did had any influence upon the

GETTING READY FOR THE NEW YEAR'S RACE-MANY WOMEN RIDERS.

With continued fine weather to-morrow and Monday it is expected that the outpouring of een on the road on Election and Thanksgiving days. Travelling men for the large concerns are oming home to spend the holidays with their families, and they report that business is good all along the line. The reports from those who have been travelling in the West are most encouraging. Year's run to Yonkers and Tarrytown say that than ever, and they are hoping for a continuation of the present fine weather. This contest for several years past has been decided under the most trying conditions. Last winter it was run in a blinding storm of snow and sleet,

The manufacturers and dealers say that the de mand for dropframe wheels last season was the largest in the history of the trade. They point to the fact that more women were seen on the road than ever before. In some quarters the demand nounced, but the makers say that this did not cause any decrease in the sale of drop frame wheels. In some districts in the West one sees more women on the road than men. This was true of Brooklyn earlier in the season, and any one who used the Cycle Path in the mornings or afternoons will verify this fact. Many women in Brooklyn did their shopping on their wheels, but since the winter season's arrival fewer women are seen on the road. In this borough the wheel has never been used to any extent by shoppers on account of the lack of asphalted streets in the shopping districts.

Bicycles on which riders have made records are ometimes exhibited, and atract more or less attention. It is yet to be recorded, however, that ne of these wheels was ever sold for any conside amount. A story comes from Paris that an noblle which recently won a race was put up t auction and brought more than twice the price sually charged for the same machine new.

The first of the series of subscription dances given by the Brooklyn Bleycle Club at its hand-some clubbouse at Hanson and South Elliott places took place last evening, and was largely attended,

SOME PAVOR AN EASTERN AND A WESTERN AS WELL AS A NATIONAL LEAGUE-BROOK-LYN CLUB THREATENED. That the National League clubowners

that they have brought about a crisis in baseball seems assured. They know that the time has come for the burial of all personal grievances and for getting together and working in harmony for the general good. In discussing the situation yesterday man who has been prominent in the affairs of the League for years said: "This is no time for wrangling. The unsettled condition of affairs in the National League has upset the game all over the country. This applies not only to the major organization, but to all the minor leagues as well, What looks to be the best way out of the trouble would be for the clubowners to organize an eightclub league, and with what is left reorganize the old American Association."

Several of the other clubowners do not favor this plan. They seem to think that the association might in time become too powerful and might wish to dictate to the League as it did note before. With this idea in their minds the owners of the favored clubs are working toward another plan, which, if carried out, will leave the League in supreme control of the field, with two powerful allies to stand behind it. The plan is to strengthen the Eastern League by the addition of Baitimore and Washington, and to have the other two discarded teams, Louisville and Cleveland, go into the Western League. In certain quarters in the West a decided opposition to this plan will be found.

The owners of the Brooklyn Club are still waiting to hear officially from the Circuit Committee appointed at the recent meeting of the League. In an interview yesterday Andrew Freedman, of the New-York Club, is reported to have said that in case the Brooklyn Club did not pay its fine of $500 the Brooklyn team could not play at the Polo Grounds next season. If the gate receipts were no larger than they were last season, the Brooklyn Club's coffers would not suffer much. The champions could play outside exhibition games with probably better financial returns. Several of the other clubowners do not favor

HART ON LEAGUE AFFAIRS.

Chicago, Dec. 22.-James A. Hart, the man who controls the destinies of the Chicago Baseball Club, is in favor of the scheme proposed by John T. Brush looking toward the establishment of an Eastern and a Western Baseball League to act as supplementary to the major organization. 'The three league scheme," declared Mr. Hart,

"The three league scheme," declared Mr. Hart, "is one that will bring harmony and establish baseball on a good basis all around. I am heartily in favor of it and hope to see it accomplished. What would be the respective circuits of the three organizations would be decided later, although there is little question that the National League would stay in the cities that are mentioned as the survivors of a reduction to eight clubs." "Ban" Johnson, president of the new American League, did not believe Brush's scheme practicable.

M'GOVERN KNOCKS OUT FORBES IN THE ABC-OND ROUND.

BOXING.

"Terry" McGovern, the bantamweight champion of the world, met Harry Forbes, of Chicago, at the Broadway Athletic Club last night, and knocked from the west recently, where he has beet meeting two opponents a night and knocking them out in the same ring. The conditions of the fight were to be twenty-five rounds, at 118 pounds, under Queensberry rules. The first round opened with McGovern the aggressor, Forbes moving around the ring to keep out of harm's way. When they came together Forbes sent his left to McGovern's face and received blows on the body from both his rival's ern's face again, and after a clinch McGovern landed on the jaw. Forbes kept backing away, and finally led, but failed to land, and was forced back with a right to body into one of the corners of the ring, where McGovern struck both hands on Forbes's body and followed it up with a right on the jaw. Forbes was first to land in the second round, with a left on the face, getting away without a return. McGovern then sent a right swing on the jaw, which sent Forbes to the floor, where he stayed the time limit. When he arose he got into a clinch, in which McGovern pounded hard with both hands on the body. After the referee separated them Forbes rushed McGovern to the ropes, where both indulged in terrific infighting. Forbes backing away was hit by his opponent twice on the head, and then got a right hand uppercut, which sent him to the floor and out. The time of the round was I minute and 33 seconds at The house was crowded to its utmost capacity. Standing room even could not be found. The betting was 160 to 40 on McGovern, and even money that Forbes would not last ten rounds.

The preliminary contest, of twelve rounds, between "Jack" Smith and "Tommy" Halton, resulted in the worst sort of slugging. Smith was declared the winner. out a return. McGovern then sent a right swing
